It was learned from a document of the Pay-Office at the VEB IKA Cable Plant in Koepenick that workers arrested in connection with the June 17 uprising and released in the meantime would be paid 90 percent of their basic wages. On the other hand, some of the workers of the plant who had been arrested for 16 days after 17 June, had been notified that no wages would be paid them for the time of their arrest. The workers released from prison did not make any statements on the time of their detention. It appears that all of them were mistreated. Several of them reported ill for several days and were not allowed to enter the plant area during that time. The signs of ill-treatment were still visible on some of the workers involved.
